TOP NOTES

Lukas Rousek scored his first AHL goal to open the scoring early in the first period.

Two of his three points this season have come against Cleveland since making his season debut against the Monsters back on March 18.

With Rousek's goal, the Amerks have now scored first in four straight and eight of the last 10 games.

Ethan Prow recorded an assist on Rochester's first goal of the game to extend his point streak to six games, giving him seven points (1+6) over that span.

After tonight, he's now tied for third amongst all AHL defensemen in assists (38) and third in points (48) as he inches closer to his second 50-point campaign.

With his first-period goal, forward Brandon Biro became the third different Amerks rookie this season to reach the 40-point mark, joining JJ Peterka and Jack Quinn.

Ukko-Pekka Luukkonen made his sixth consecutive start, going 4-2-0 over that span.

Oskari Laaksonen recorded his team-leading 23rd power-play assist tonight, which is good enough for fourth among league defensemen in that category.
